When Helen Macdonald's father died suddenly on a London street, she was devastated. An experienced falconer captivated by hawks since childhood, she'd never before been tempted to train one of the most vicious predators: the goshawk. But in her grief, she saw that the goshawk's fierce and feral anger mirrored her own. Resolving to purchase and raise the deadly creature as a means to cope with her loss, she adopted Mabel and turned to the guidance of The Once and Future King author T. H. White's chronicle The Goshawk to begin her journey into Mabel's world. Projecting herself "in the hawk's wild mind to tame her" tested the limits of Macdonald's humanity. She was drifting away now. Back up the vanishing staircase. Her small hand reached out to me. An impossibly loud crash, followed by screams, enveloped me. The trees swayed and churned, moved by the powerful winds. Suddenly it all stopped. The imagining was over and I was left standing alone in the woods. Dead people leave energies behind ...Lillia Pameroy can see and hear, feel and touch those fragments of energy... The unsettled spirit of a lady in white haunts the lonely, abandoned graveyard...waiting. Decades have gone by since the horrific accident that took her life and tore her family apart. Now help is here and the waiting is over. Lillia arrives at her
